“From Hayes Hall to the Financial Industry,
Working as a Statistician in Banks”

Yinan will talk about her curricular choices at Kenyon College and the University of Iowa. She will reflect on how her classes formed a solid foundation for her consulting work as a statistician. In addition, she will share some beneficial work and study habits. She will talk about her career path from Capital One to PNC, and how some of her internships helped her secure those positions. Finally, she will talk about the types of problems she deals with in the banking industry, including techniques and soft skills needed to be successful with quantitative analyses.

Monday, March 27, 2017 - 3:10 p.m.
Franklin Miller, Jr. Lecture Hall - Hayes 109

MATH MONDAY